Closing Thoughts

Remember that the excitement should always be building slowly. By spending 2 full weeks working on steps, followed by 1½ weeks of dance practice the campers won't get bored. Don't start screaming until the week before Indian Council.

There are always people who will be glad to help you with this program. Remember to ask them.

Indian Council director, in my opinion is the best job at Chippewa Trail. You alone have the opportunity to work with each camper individually. Because it is a unique experience, they generally all love the program. Remember that the program is for the children and don't push them too hard. There is no sense program, because when you see the faces of our children on the night of the council you will know for certain that the costumes, etc. isn't what matters -- it's their participation in this most beautiful of programs. There can be no mistakes if the children enjoy it.

Love it like I do and you can't go wrong. Good luck Anne and everyone else who participates in Chippewa Trail Camp tribes' Indian Council.
